

A tall, precarious tower of colorful gift boxes is built on a green hill. At the very top, a king wearing a crown and a red robe is reaching up towards a crescent moon. The tower is made of various wrapped gifts in different colors and patterns. A wooden ladder leans against the side of the tower, leading up to a yellow gift box. The background is a dark blue night sky filled with yellow stars of various sizes. The ground is a mix of green and blue, suggesting grass and water or a path.
